We are sorry to inform you that your study is not yet available from your imaging center or you have entered the wrong credentials necessary to retrieve your records. Please note that it typically takes up to 72 hours for your scan to become available in MIMIC. If you've had a scan within the last 72 hours, we kindly ask you to wait until this time has passed before attempting to register again. If you feel there has been an error, please review your information and try again. If the issue persists, please contact your imaging center. We apologize for any inconvenience this may have caused.
